How the Corporate World Hires

When a company has an open position and they need another person to join, they give a manager budget for a new hire. This manager is called a Hiring Manager (HM).

This HM is just a regular manager who needs to hire. It is rarely their whole job and most HMs don't have a lot of experience in hiring, some may only hire once every few years.

To help with this process as HMs don't usually have the time to handle all of the issues in hiring, they engage Recruiters to help them manage the companies open positions.

What is the corporate hiring process

The steps to hire a candidate, which is what Recruiters call people that are looking for a job are:

1. HM gets budget for a new role
2. HM engages a Recruiter
3. Recruiter gathers the qualifications (keywords) for the role from the HM
4. Recruiter posts a job posting to a job board (Indeed, LinkedIn, Monster, etc)
5. Recruiter reviews resumes candidates send for the qualifications the HM wants
6. Those resumes pass a pre-screen (optional) and get sent to the HM
7. The HM interviews candidates
8. An Offer is made to the best candidate or if no candidates meet the HMS criteria, as an HM would rather no hire than a “bad hire” the process restarts at step 5#

Your Resume Should Look and Read Like This

The Resumes only job is to get you interviews

A good resume will get more interviews than a bad resume

Good resumes that get interviews read like government forms you turn in at the DMV

Work History

Cashier at Large Ducks Coffee, TX

June 2023 to Current

- Operated our Point of Sale (POS) cash register to collect money from customers and performed basic math to give them the proper change, keeping them engaged with customer service while I prepared their food and beverages.
- Handled a large lunch rush line by providing customer service and multitasking while making their food that resulted in multiple five-star reviews on our Google Page mentioning me by name.
- Gave customers correct change by adding and subtracting cash.
- Used a desktop computer to read company emails, take online barista training courses, and input shift ability into our schedule.
- Arrived on time to every shift and found coverage for my shift when an emergency stopped me from coming into work.

Waiter at Shake and Bake Doughnuts

October 2021 to June 2023

- Spoke with customers to get their orders and delivered them to our kitchen staff via our POS, ensured customers had a good time with customer service, and kept everything cleaned and up to code.
- Multi tasked with taking customers' orders and performing customer service such (Active Listening) for multiple tables of customers.
- Upsold drink sizes and gave customers correct change when asked for the bill by performing addition and subtraction if they paid in cash rather than credit card.
- Took directions from management on which areas needed extra help when we were short staffed.

How to tell if your resume is “good”

A good rule of thumb to tell if a resume is good by how many interviews you get vs the number of applications you send. You can give them grades based on the following ratios.

1 to 10 = A+

1 to 25 = B

1 to 50 = C-

1 to 75 = D

1 to 100+ = F

What a resume is and isn't

Resume are:

- Made to showcase that you meet the minimum qualifications for the role
- Tailored to a specific job title

They are terrible at:

- Showing Brags
- Marketing
- Graphic Design

The only goal of your resume is to show you meet the minimum qualifications for the job title you are applying to.

The most important step in resume creation

Before writing your first words on your resume, you need to find the keywords for your job title.

What are keywords? Keywords are shorthand for Qualifications that both the Recruiter and HM look for to determine if you meet the minimum qualifications for the role.

Both Recruiter and HM have 15 seconds to look at your resume, and they need to see HOW you used those keywords and WHY you used them in those 15 seconds or else they will reject you.

What is a Job Title?

Job titles are the common name for a certain set of qualifications that HM are looking for, as an example a HM/Recruiter will look for the following in a resume for each of these job titles

- Barista: POS, Customer Service, Basic Math, Multitasking
- Accountant: Excel, Generally Accepted Accounting Principles, GAAP, CPA
- IT Helpdesk: Customer Service, Troubleshooting, MS Office, Zoom, Windows
- Project Manager: PMP/CSM, Client/Stakeholders, Agile, Cross Functional

What is a Job Description (JD)

JDs contain all the information about the position such as but not limited to

- Job Title
- Salary
- Day to Day duties
- EEOC/EOE Statements

You can ignore all of the above, as that is not relevant for your resume. The only thing in the JD that matters is the Qualifications.

What are Qualifications

Keywords are found in the following sections in bullet points

- Requirements
- Qualifications
- Must Have
- Need to Have
- What we are Looking for
- We Would Love To Meet You If
- You Might Be a Great Fit If

Everything under that section in a JD under a bullet point is a Qualification. These are the only thing that matter in constructing your resume.

Not all JDs are good, some are terrible and don't include the keywords. If a JD does not include the qualifications it is a Bad JDs. If it contains those keywords in those sections it is a Good JD.

How to find the right Qualifications

1. Go to Indeed, LinkedIn, Monster, etc to find jobs
2. Find a Good JD that you meet 75% of the qualifications for and copy the keywords down on a separate sheet of paper/Excel Sheet.
3. Repeat this process 10 to 15 more times for JDs that have the same job title.
4. Mark how many times each of those qualifications appeared in those JDs
5. That is the list of qualifications you are going to use to create your resume.
The more they appeared, the more important they are.

For each different job title you want to apply to, you will need to do the above.
Different job titles have different qualifications and resumes are job title specific.

An amazing resume that gets you a Project Manager job, will fail to get you a Barista job and vice versa.

I Have the Qualifications, Now What!?

Those qualifications are going to be used a little later, but we needed to find them first.

We can now begin making our resume.

You can make a resume in Microsoft Word or Google Docs. One is not better than the other.

Let's create our resume

Formatting Your Resume: Basic Rules

- Font: Arial, do not use any other font
- Black and White are the only colors your resume should have (with the exception of your phone, email, LinkedIn/Portfolio which can be in blue)
- Single Column Only
- Line Spacing needs to be 1.5
- It is ok if your resume is longer than one page
- No picture of yourself

Resume Section 1: Name, Contact, and Location

Lee Korelitz

123-456-7890 | myrealemailaddress@aol.com | linkedin.com/leekorelitz

US Citizen in Los Angeles, CA

- This section is Center Aligned
- Include your First and Last name, Font Size 14, Bold it
- Phone Number, Email, and LinkedIn/Portfolio, Font Size 12
- Put US Citizen/Green Card Holder (if you are one) in City and State, Font 12
- If you are bi-lingual or know multiple languages, you can put them besides or below the last line.

Optional: Summary Section

If you are doing any of the following you will need a small summary. Do not state Summary, just put the following information directly below your contact information

- Changing industries
 - Example: I am transitioning from Wind Turbine Mechanic to Fry Cook from Y
- Need to relocate/move out of state for the job
 - Moving to CITY on X-Date but can move sooner if needed
- Need Sponsorship or are on a VISA
 - If you are on an H1B Without an Approved I-140 or on an OPT you do not need this summary
 - You will need to explain how people can work with your Visa as Recruiters and Hiring Managers may not be aware they can hire you.
- If you do not have one of the above issues, do not write a summary

Resume Section 2: Education and Certificates (Optional)

Education & Certificates

- B.A. in Economics from NYC College in NY

Status - Graduated

- This section is Left Aligned, with 10.5 Font
- Education & Certificates should be bolded, but nothing else in this section
- This section should be no longer than 3 lines
- All Education and certificates should be in bullet points
- Include the degree (B.A., M.A., PhD, etc) then what it was in and where it was
- If you graduated more than 3 years ago, put Status Graduated otherwise put the year you graduated
- If you have relevant certificates, write them in and you do not need to include when you received it as long as it is still active
- If the job title you are applying for does not require a degree or would make you massively over qualified you would put the education section on the bottom of your resume instead of under your contact section

Resume Section 2: Work History, Internships, and Projects

- Work History and Internships go in the Work History section of your resume
- Projects go in the Project Section section of your resume
- Projects do not have dates as projects do not need dates
- Projects get 3 bullet points maximum
- If you got paid for it by a company, it's work history, if you did not get paid by a company it is a project
- The order of importance is Relevance to the job, then Work History, then Internships, then Projects
- Everything else about Work History, Internships, and Projects are the same

Resume Section 2: Work History, Projects, Internships (Formatting)

Work History

Cashier at Large Ducks Coffee, TX

June 2023 to Current

- Font Size 10.5
- Work History/Internship/Projects needs to be Bolded, nothing else in this section should be bolded
- This section needs to be in Reverse Chronological Order and left centered

Job Information

Work History

Cashier at Large Ducks Coffee, TX

June 2023 to Current

- Italicize your your job title, company, state, (left centered) and years of employment (right centered)
- Dates of employment for Full Time Work and Internship MUST include Months and Years
- If you are still employed at the company you will put the month and year you started and put “to current” as in the example above

Job Summary

Work History

Cashier at Large Ducks Coffee, TX

June 2023 to Current

- Operated our Point of Sale (POS) cash register to collect money from customers and performed basic math to give them the proper change, keeping them engaged with customer service while I prepared their food and beverages.

- Create a summary sentence of what you did at this job, this sentence needs to include a few keywords from our keyword list and needs to be basic enough that someone with no industry knowledge could understand
- This sentence needs to be in a bullet point
- This sentence can be 3 lines maximum and should not include more than 1 period
- This sentence is to be written in the past tense, even if you are still employed

Past Experience pt 1: What, How, Result/Reason

Cashier at Large Ducks Coffee, TX

June 2023 to Current

- Operated our Point of Sale (POS) cash register to collect money from customers and performed basic math to give them the proper change, keeping them engaged with customer service while I prepared their food and beverages.
- Handled a large lunch rush line by providing customer service and multitasking while making their food that resulted in multiple five-star reviews on our Google Page mentioning me by name.
- Gave customers correct change by adding and subtracting cash.

- Create a bullet point that includes keywords from your keyword list, the more the better
- The sentence needs to show HOW you used the keyword and the result or reason you used the keyword
- Often the What, How, Result/Reason will overlap and that is ok.
- This sentence needs to be in a bullet point
- This sentence can be 3 lines maximum and should not include more than 1 period
- This sentence is to be written in the past tense even if you are still employed

Past Experience pt 2: Example of What, How, Result/Reason

- Handled a large lunch rush line by providing customer service and multitasking while making their food that resulted in multiple five-star reviews on our Google Page mentioning me by name.
- Gave customers correct change by adding and subtracting cash.

- Sentence 1:
 - What: Customer Service, Multitasking
 - How: Handled a large lunch line by performing customer service and multitasking
 - Result: 5 star google reviews
- Sentence 2:
 - What: Perform Basic Math
 - How: Added and Subtracted Cash
 - Reason: Gave customers correct change

Past Experience pt 3: Repeat

- Once you have created your bullet point with keywords in a What, How, Reason/Result format you will need to do it again
- Create a new sentence involving different keywords
- Repeat this process until you have a minimum of 3 bullet points (including Summary) or a maximum of 8 Bullet Points (including the summary) depending on how long you were at that job
- Once you reach 3 to 8 total bullet points (1 summary sentence and 2 to 7 What, How, Result/Reason sentences) you are finished with this job

Repeat, Repeat, Repeat

- Move on to the next job repeating the Job Information, Job Summary, Past Experience
- You want to put no more than 12 years of experience in this manner (with the exception of High Level Directors/Managers)
- Your goal should be to have 75% of the keywords in your keyword list in the first half of the first page of your resume
- Once you have finished you are good to send your resume out

Where to Apply to Jobs

Jobs are posted to job boards by Recruiters/HMs

Popular Job Boards

- LinkedIn.com
- Indeed.com
- Monster.com
- ZipRecruiter.com
- Glassdoor.com
- <http://craigslist.org/> (Yes Really)

Which Jobs Sites are Best?

- LinkedIn and Indeed are the primary sites you should use
- Those two sites contain the majority of jobs on the market
- It is ok to use other sites but the most efficient use of your time will be applying on Indeed and LinkedIn
- Every other job board is usually just reposting jobs that are found on Indeed and LinkedIn and while there may be a few jobs that are on the other sites, it's usually not worth your time
- The exception to this is Craigslist
- Craigslist jobs are 95% scams but the 5% of real jobs on Craigslist you will never find on any other job board

The #1 Rule of Applying to Jobs:
The Faster You Apply the Better Your Chances of Getting an Interview

What is an ATS?

- Recruiters have between 35 to 70 open positions at the same time
- Recruiters use Applicant Tracking Systems to keep track of all of our open requisitions (Open Jobs), see where candidates are in the process (first interview, second interview, offer, or rejected), and a bunch of other Recruiter specific needs
- There are a lot of rumors of what an ATS does, how it hurts candidates chances of getting a job, and AI Scanning technology
- Don't believe those rumors
- This is a more detailed video on how ATS work

Why is Faster Better

- ATS sorts people in the order they applied. Anything that increases your time to hit "submit" in the ATS will lower your chances.
- If you are resume #139, the recruiter may find who they need at number #75, and once we fill up ours/managers' schedule with interviews, we stop looking unless the HM needs more candidates.
- Yes, AI ATS and Resume Scanning do exist, but they exist in such small numbers that unless you are specifically applying for an AI company, you will only see an AI ATS in 1 out of 100 applications.
- The default setting for the majority of ATS on the market (Such as Workday, ADP, and Taleo) is first-come, first-served
- Thus the faster you apply the better your chances

How to Apply to Jobs on Indeed.com

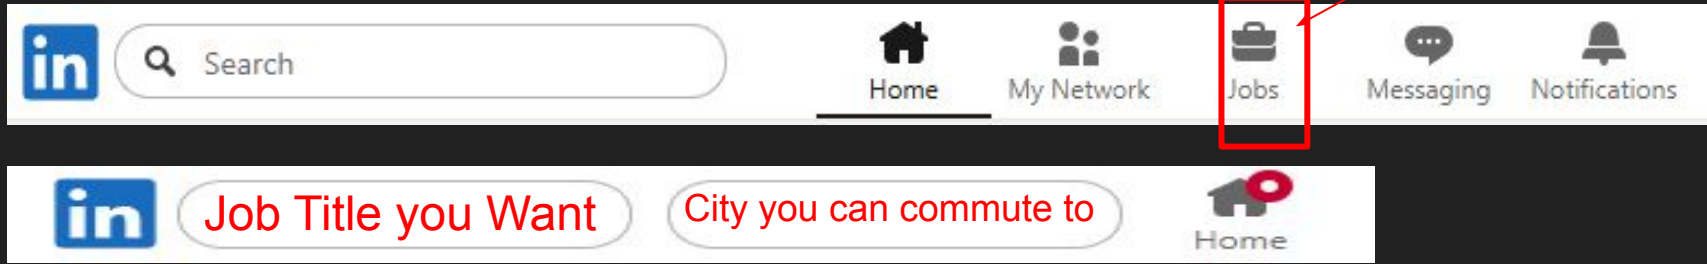

The image shows the top section of the Indeed.com website. At the top, there is a search bar with two input fields. The first field contains the text "Job Title You Want" in red, and the second field contains the text "Location you are comfortable commuting to" in red. To the right of these fields is a blue button labeled "Search". Below the search bar, there are several filter buttons. The first button is dark grey and labeled "Jobs you haven't seen" with a close icon. The other buttons are light grey and labeled "Remote", "Company sector", "Job Type", "Experience level", "Pay", "Education", "Developer skill", "Location", "Developer type", "Within 50 miles", "Company", and "Employer/Recruiter". Each button has a small downward arrow indicating it is a dropdown menu.

If you are searching for a remote role, put the location as United States, and not where you are located otherwise you will lessen the amount of jobs available

LinkedIn AI Search

- LinkedIn as of 8/20/2026 implemented an AI search
- This search is less powerful than the classic version
- If you are able to try and switch back to the classic version
- If you are not able to do so you will need to do the following to find jobs with under 100 applicants
- In the section where you search for a job type JOB NAME jobs with under 100 applicants
- It should look like the following

Frequently Asked Questions (F.A.Q.) Page 1 of 3

- Why is it so hard to find a job now compared to previous years?
 - We are in a recession and there are more people that need jobs than jobs exist, every single problem with searching for a job boils down to the economy
- What is the ratio of applications to interview you can get me?
 - I get people 1 interview per 7 applications for non-remote roles, 1 interview per 20 applications for remote only roles, and 1 interview per 100 applications for internationals which is shockingly good as most internationals have a 1 in 400 ratio
- Do you do private lessons?
 - I do not do private lessons at this time but if you need more help you can join my livestream every M/W/F at 11:00 PST on YouTube or Twitch to get your resume reviewed

Frequently Asked Questions (F.A.Q.) Page 2 of 3

- Does this advice work for XXX job?
 - Yes, my advice works on everything from Accountants to Zebra Handlers
 - The only exception is Lawyers and Medical Doctors
 - Unless you are a Medical Doctor or a Lawyer my advice will work and you do not need to change anything about it
- What about interviews, do you have a guide for interviews?
 - Not at this time, I am working on a guide for interviews but interviews are inherently a tougher thing to write about as while you can have common tactics, people are going to be people and who you are interviewing with and what they want matters more than anything else

- What about ghost jobs?
 - Ghost jobs don't exist. If you dig into every article of about ghost jobs it always leads back to a resume creation website or job search help website that wants your money.
 - These companies want you afraid so you spend money on their product
 - Scams do exist, make no mistake, as some jobs are fake in that they want your money but those have existed for the last 20 years, and if at anypoint in a job you have to pay them, run
- Does this advice work in XXX country
 - Yes, my advice works in the U.S.A., Canada, Mexico, India, the EU, the UK, Africa and more
 - The exception to that is the Netherlands, no I don't know why, but that is the only place in the world that my advice doesn't work.
- Can I thank you for this?
 - Yes! You can leave me a tip here and if my advice helped you get a job, please leave me a testimonial with the resume that got you the job
